LEHIGH BURR

A DAM^E EVE NUMBER

MURAD

THE TURKISH CIGARETTE

Mrs. Fox was bragging one day about the large number of her cubs.

"How many cubs do you bring into the world at one time?" she asked the Lioness.

"Only ONE," replied the Lioness—“but it's a LION.”

MURADS COST 20 CENTS for a BOX of 10 — BUT THEY'RE MURADS!

MURADS would be lower priced if we left out all or part of the 100% Turkish tobaccos of the purest and best varieties grown—or if we substituted inferior grades of Turkish tobacco.

But they wouldn't be MURADS—they'd only be Foxes!

“Judge for Yourself—!”

Adam and Eve

*Here's to the first one of us all,
To Adam, the dear old thing.
Who wore no clothes in early fall,
And wore the same in Spring.*

*And here's to Eve, his mate so neat,
A nifty little kid;
Who dared her hubby dear, to eat
An apple, which he did.*

*So when God called him, from his seat,
What had he then to say?
"That woman tempted me to eat,
So could I but obey?"*

*And so he blamed his fig-leaf dame,
As men will, I've heard tell.
But I'll bet that before Eve came,
That Garden Life was Hell!*

NEW YEAR'S EVE

The Lehigh Burr

HOW IT HAPPENED

*Adam was the first man that ever was invented—
He lived in the Garden but he never was contented;*

*Made out o' mud in the days gone by—
They hung him on the fence for the sun to dry.*

*Along came Eve and the two had a battle;
He sent her up a tree to fetch him down an apple.
She brought down two and they each ate one,
And that's how all the trouble begun.*

WE CAN SEE NO HARM

"Is there any particular harm in a maiden exposing her dainty ankles to public view?"

"Much depends on where the ankles end."

IT HAPPENS OFTEN

Instructor (after several failures to answer his question): "Next."

Stude (waking up): "Haircut and shave."

Adam may have been kicked out of the garden, but in one way he was lucky—the only thing he had to remember was "Fig Leaf." But just think what we have now under the general heading Lingerie!

The devil isn't as black as he is painted—nor is a woman as pink.

IT'S DIFFERENT NOW

She: "The jesters must have had a hard time of it in Eve's age."

He: "How is that?"

She: "There couldn't have been much to say about woman's dress."

IT HAPPENED IN THOSE DAYS, TOO

Louis XIV (having cut himself while shaving): "— — ? ? * * & † † ! ! !"

Prime Minister: "What ho, my lord, what ho?"

Louis XIV: "Gillette, d - - - m't, Gillette!"

THAT'S NOT ALL

"Do you think the modern girl's shoulders are beautiful?"

"Well, Eve's had nothing on them."

"Old Mother Hubbard went to the closet;
To get her poor daughter a dress,
But when she got there, the closet was bare,
And so was her daughter, I guess."

ABSOLUTELY

"What was Eve made for?"

"Adams Express Co."

If the girls keep on the way they are going, fig leaves will be worn again in 1930!

I'M THE GUY

I was born 10,000 years ago,
There isn't anything that I don't know.
I saw Peter, Paul and Moses, playing, Ring
Around the Roses,
And I'll beat the guy that says it isn't so.

I was here when the country had a king.
I saw Cleopatra pawn her wedding ring.
I was on the street car flyin,' when George Washington stopped lying;
I was here when Melba first began to sing.

Queen Elizabeth, she fell in love with me,
We were married in Milwaukee secretly.
But I got tired and shook'er, just to join old General Hooker
And we drove the mosquitos out of Tennessee.

I taught Solomon his little A B C's;
I was here when first they made limburger cheese.
I was sailin' down the bay with Methuselah one day,
And I saw his whiskers floating in the breeze.

I was here when Satan looked the garden o'er;
I saw Adam and Eve driven from the door.
I was behind the bushes peepin', at the apple they was eatin',
And I'll swear that I'm the guy that ate the core!

The first time I called on her she was insulted because I tried to kiss her.
The second time I called on her she was insulted because I did not try to kiss her.
The third time I called on her we went motoring.

A good way for a lot of guys in college to quit smoking is for me to quit buying cigarettes.

SHE STARTED EARLY

Co-ed: "Is it true that woman was taken from the rib of man?"

Soph: "Yep, that's right, and she's been taking things from him ever since."

DEMOCRATS NEED MONEY

Headline

And a lot of students are in the same fix!

A DREAM

My pipe and I—the old leather chair and dreams—. But this time no wonderful girl, no beautiful vision. The air is filled with strange figures, formulae and signs. Strange equations dance before my eyes—. Look—they fade, and there stands before me a horrible monster, like a geni of Arabian Nights. He speaks with a voice of thunder. "I am the Demon CALCULUS, come to do your bidding. Today you formed the mystic equation that summons me from my home in the depths. Speak, Master, I await your bidding!" I could hardly believe my senses. Think—the monster CALCULUS, your slave! With a voice that trembled with fear, I said, "Do those six problems I have for tomorrow." The Demon bowed low and said, "Master you will find them on your desk!" A crash—a puff of smoke, my pipe dropped to the floor and I made a dash for my room! My God! They were there on my desk. I fainted. When I came to, my room mate was throwing water over me. "Say what's the matter with you. Just as you went off I tried to tell you that Jack brought those problems over!"

SOME CHANGE

"Women have changed a lot since Eve's time."
"What way in particular?"

"She only wanted one apple at that time, now its the whole orchard or alimony."

SWEET WORDS

He: "Sweetest, this kiss will tell you just what I want to say—do you understand it?"

She: "No—say it again."

Here lies the body of Mary Ann Lowder,
She burst while drinking a Seidlitz powder.
Called from this world to her heavenly rest—
She should have waited 'till it effervesced!

*We will now sing that little song entitled,
"When Eve Gave Adam the Apple, Wasn't She a Little Bear?"*

A MODERN EVE

M.R.'23

LIGHT BLOND

He sought illumination
On a matter rather dense.
'Twas Mazie's hair that puzzled him,
It's quantity immense.
She vowed it all belonged to her—
The wily little witch,
By accident, light came to him—
His hand had touched the switch!

So live that you can sleep at night!

FOR your approval, BURRO presents the "Adam and Eve" number. We hope its humor will not be found risque by the pure, nor flat by the,—no, not the impure,—rather the rest of us. BURRO takes pride in announcing that the title is not entirely misleading. We did not name it thus, merely to sell more copies, but have really several sly cracks in which Mr. Adam and Mrs. Eve are the leading characters. By doing this, we have placed ourselves in an embarrassing situation, for every one knows that the cover of a magazine should mean nothing. However, be detained no longer,—devour the delicious bits of humor herein.

AGAIN the final reckoning is at hand. Once more the spectre walks. In his right hand he carries an oil can, containing, as you may guess,—midnight oil. The hill, as seen by night, is beginning to look as though someone lived on it. How the lights twinkle, in dorms and fraternity house. But cheer up,—BURRO predicts a speedy return to the good old conditions, when the electric light bill will be down to normal. To those who survive,—congratulations; and to those who fall,—better luck next time.

LAST June, the Alpha Rho chapter of Pi Delta Epsilon was founded here. Pi Delta Epsilon is a national honorary journalistic fraternity. One of the qualifications for election is two years conspicuous service on one of the college papers. In other words, men are not taken in because they belong to the right crowd or know the right men—they make the fraternity because they have, in the opinion of the active chapter, deserved the honor.

Pi Delta Epsilon has elected seven men from the Junior and Senior classes. Each has been a credit to his paper and a credit to his college. They are due greater commendation by reason of the fact that they were working for an ideal,—they had nothing material in view. But you men who are on the papers now, and you men who are in competitions, remember you have a goal for which you may strive, after you have made the board. If we can get this spirit on all the papers, clear out all the dead wood on the boards, and show steady improvement, then Pi Delta Epsilon is serving her purpose.

THE reformers are out again and this time they are after all habits, even to the Sunday papers, but here is one they can do battle with and come out licked. It's the "Hello" habit. You don't have to "shake it well before using," and it doesn't leave a bad taste in your mouth. Some of you haven't tried it for so long that the truth of this statement is doubted, but just remember we thrive on truth and paid subscriptions.

Many a word has been flung since the opening of college about this habit but unfortunately it has taken little effect upon Lehigh's college youths. Instead of looking a man over you pass him to see what kind of a pin he's wearing or how he parts his shoes, give him a sample of your vocal abilities. As it has been around the campus, some of the fellows look at you as if you were a Horse Thief or a federal liquor agent. They won't speak to you unless they want a match or want to know what time it is.

What a lovely sweet spirit that is and how it does stimulate cooperation amongst the student body. Any Lehigh man who can see the advantages of making this habit universal should throw in his hand, for he has had a misdeal. Don't sneak about the campus and town looking like a "Siberian Grave-digger" and haunting every secluded spot possible but wear a good-natured smile on your "gouk" and have a cheery hello for every Lehigh man you meet. When someone greets you make him feel that he hasn't spoken to a preceptress of a Young Women's Finishing School, but to an honest-to-God, sympathizing human being.

AMONG the buildings of a university, the one that should be used most is the library. This is, however, not true at Lehigh. In fact it may almost be said that the opposite is the fact. There is undoubtedly some reason for this state of affairs and if possible, it should be remedied, because it certainly is not right to allow such a wonderful collection of books, on almost any subject, to go practically unused. We do not believe that the students do not appreciate the library. They have surely learned the value of books by this time.

We believe that the principal reason for this state of affairs is the lack of proper equipment in the library. If there is one quality a library should possess, it is that of proper lighting, and this is the one thing in which our library is lacking. On dark days, the area that can be used for reading in the main reading room is greatly limited due to poor lighting, and many of the alcoves can not be used at any time.

Another complaint we often hear in regard to our library is that men are not able to find the books that they desire. This is not to be wondered at, as in most libraries attendants obtain the books you desire, while in this library you must, in most cases, find the books yourself.

We believe that these faults can be very easily corrected and by all means should be corrected so that the student body may get greater pleasure from this wonderful collection of books.

IT MIGHT HAVE BEEN DIFFERENT

Some time ago, in fact, very much in the past, there was a great shortage of farm hands. Now you may think that all the village cut-ups had left the old homesteads and Bossy to go to the metropolis and give Broadway a treat and Wall Street a panic. But such was not the case. The great scarcity of men with the odor of the stable very fluent, was due to the fact that there were none, and never had been any. Old Mother Earth had rooms to let—she was vacant.

Things went on in this deplorable state for over a week. Some one had to be created in order that old Nell could pull the plow and Daisy could be relieved of her milk. Finally, still quite a few years back, some dust was gathered en masse and behold, our original ancestor, Adam, became a living soul.

The first job he got was in the Garden of Eden where lots of goodies grew. All he had to do was to keep the place weeded, etc., and he could have his choice of everything except one brand of edibles. This tree was labeled, "Tree of the Knowledge of Good and Evil," and Adam was sent a "Valentine" warning him to lay off the fruit or he would regret it.

He kept his pledge pretty well for a while but his plans and good intentions were interrupted. Because he was thought to be lonely, he was doped one night with South Bethlehem whiskey and relieved of one of his ribs. And on coming out of the stupor, he saw what he had n'er lamped in the past—woman. As it was a pretty warm climate, not much clothing was necessary; in fact, using Chapter II, Verse 25 of Genesis as an authority, I will state that this man and his wife would have made excellent models for Parisienne postals. But they were unashamed and did not let it keep them awake nights. They thought nothing of it.

Now in this garden roamed beasts and crawled snakes. And one day Eve was out strolling. She had no desire to show off her new hat or clothes for she had neither and, besides, there was no one to look at them except Adam and he, no doubt, had become accustomed to what would now cause a riot. Well, as was said before, Eve was ~~... . . .~~ and Mr. Serpent was out crawling. (Oh, how I would like to lay my hands on that Serpent!)

Well, Mr. Serpent was treacherous. Indeed, he was up to mischief most of the time. And this snake could talk. (What a wonderful exhibit he would make for Barnum and Bailey.)

He said to Eve, "What nice fruit in this garden. Can you have any kind you wish?" And Eve said, "All except one for we are forbidden to eat of the "Tree of the Knowledge of Good and Evil." But Mr. Serpent had made his plans and in flowerly language he impressed upon Eve that the fruit was good to eat, good to look at, and also that it would make her wise. This wise stuff was too much for Eve's curiosity and she plucked a few red apples and ate of them and made Adam follow her example. And immediately a change came over them. Maybe the climate grew colder, but anyway, they suddenly realized that something had to be done—hence the fig leaf aprons. And as the years passed on, they found that fig leaves wouldn't do either. Conditions became decidedly worse until look at the women to-day!

Now, in conclusion, if Eve hadn't disobeyed, what a great world this might have been. So different!

ACTION

Him: "I'm going to kiss you every time you swear!"

Her: "I'll be damned if you will."

Knicker: "Did you notice her?"

Bocker: "Her what?"

*Since the winds of the winter blowx throux
The dress of this girl from St. Broux,
We regret to relate,
That at this very date,
The poor thing's in bed with the floux.*

BURRO'S CELEBRITY SERIES

Thaddeus Claudius Smith, our new intercollegiate heavy-weight wrestling champion, the greatest Lehigher that ever put on the gloves.

Toots Cod, our feather-weight quarter, Walter Scamp's selection for an all-Brazilian player, the greatest short stop that ever did the course in 148.

"Bullets" McPherson, the little fellow who is eating up all the profits at the Commons this year. His mother never knew he was a great pool player, and he wasn't.

Adam was the first man, I really do believe;
He lived in the garden with a woman by name of Eve.
Now Eve was fair to look upon and oh! how she could dance.
Her skirt was made of fig leaves and so were Adam's pants.
When Adam saw this picture, he turned his face to the wall,
For he knew that in the Autumn, the leaves were sure to fall.

Visitor (to butler, who is showing him through the picture gallery in an old mansion): "That's a fine portrait. Is it an old master?"

Butler: "No, it is the old missus."

How dearly we pay for the things we get for nothing!

NAUTICALLY SPEAKING

"Yes, my dear, that is a man-of-war."
"How splendid. And what is that little boat in front?"
"Oh, that's a tug."
"Oh, yes, a tug-of-war. I've often heard of them."

HOW HORRID!

A fresh young Frosh named McLister,
Swore that the girl that he had was his sister;
So, to make good his lie,
When it came to good-bye,
He rudely embraced her and kissed her!

NICE GIRL

Slow Frosh: "You are looking a little pale tonight."
She: "Yes, tell me a joke that will give me a little color."

THE WAY OF THE WORLD

*My girl, she started to knit for me
A sweater as good looking as could be.
She told me at knitting she had great speed,
And a few days to finish were all she'd need—*

But—

*She knitted, and knitted, and knitted, and then—
She ripped, and began all over again!*

*I went to the dentist's—a toothache I had.
He drilled 'till I thought that I would go mad.
When I asked him to stop, he said, "This will be
The last, and your tooth will feel better, you'll see!"*

But—

*He drilled, and he drilled, and he drilled, and then—
He swore, and began all over again!*

*One night, with a girl I had a date;
We agreed that neither one would be late,
So I rushed like a fool—was there on the dot,
But when I looked 'round, my girl, "she was not"*

And—

*I waited, and waited, and waited, and then—
I had to start waiting all over again!*

*I picked out a wop at a dance one night.
She was heavy as lead, and her face (?) was a sight!
She danced on my feet instead of the floor—
I prayed that that dance would quickly be o'er—*

But—

*The orchestra played, and played, and then—
I'll be d——d if they didn't play over again.*

*From these little verses, I hope you will see
That a poet, I can't have ambition to be;
But one loves to tell one's troubles, I'll say,
So, unless roughly stopped, I'm afraid that I may*

Just—

*Scribble on, and on, and continue, and then—
I'd naturally start in all over again!*

VERY MODERN

*"Who was the first book-keeper?"
"I dunno; who was?"
"Why, Eve, of course. She had the first loose-leaf system!"*

LOVE

Love is wonderful—wonderful. In fact the most wonderful thing in the world. Don't believe me. Did you ever read about a fellow in love? He's always unhappy unless he's with her and when he is with her he feels so nervous—doesn't know what to do with his hands. Feels so out of place. Tries so hard to make her happy. The world is hers for the asking. Sits up 'till two in the morning dreaming of her. Smokes a carton of cigarettes and dreams of her the rest of the night.— — — Yes, love is wonderful!—
IN BOOKS!

"So Adam was without a situation when Eve arrived!"

"No, without a job—he was in a very embarrassing situation."

AIN'T IT THE TRUTH?

In days of yore, a maiden sweet
Would write her meaning clearly;
And finish up her note so neat,
With simply, "Yours sincerely."
All wool!

But modern Junes have changed a bit—
They fib the whole note through;
And then tack on the end of it,
"There's no one dear, but you!"

All bull!

FIGHT, LEHIGH!

Gloaming—cozy parlor davenport—semi-indignant feminine voice: "Now Ray, you quit!"

Ray, (magnificently): "There are no quitters at LEHIGH!"

EVERYDAY OCCURRANCE

1940 (with great pride): "One of my ancestors laid out the town of Bethlehem."

1940 Sophomore: "Oh, that's nothing. When my father was in college, he laid out a bartender."

Since the saloons are closed, we don't know where to meet our friends!

FOR THE YEAR 1921

SPEAKING OF GIRLS

Price: "Say, they don't call girls 'chickens' here in Bethlehem."

Hall: "What do they call 'em?"

Price: "Easter eggs!"

Hall: "And why Easter eggs?"

Price: "'Cause they're hard boiled."

Hall: "Yeh?"

Price: "And hand painted!"

Gym: "Say, Jim, we owe Adam and Eve a whole lot."

Jim: "How so?"

Gym: "It sure would be cold running around in winter with no clothes."

AUTUMN STUDIES

I see her now in vision fair,
As in the summer days
The sunshine seems to kiss her hair
With all its golden rays.

The saucy twinkle in her eye
Still comes back to me—
Equilibrium, force and torque.
Integrate, 'teen y and z.

Budlike lips of cherry hue,
Sylphlike form divine—
Ionic substance in solution.
Change to minus sign.

Hydraulics, sound and entropy--
The cutest little nose,
Graphic statics, steam injectors—
Her cheeks are like the rose.

I hear the twinkle of her laugh—
Rotary blower fan,
Steel and concrete, beam deflection--
I certainly like Ann!

"Tom," said she, softly, as she looked trustingly into his eyes.

"What is it, dearest?" he asked tenderly.

"Don't you think, Tom," she continued slowly, "that you had better throw away that cigar?"

"Do you object to smoke, my dear?" he asked.

"Oh, no, Tom; not at all," she replied quickly.

"I rather like the smell of a good cigar, but—but—"

"But what, dearest?"

"But you are forgetful, Tom, and—and—if you should forget to take the cigar out of your mouth, you might—even a slight burn on my cheek, you know, would cause comment."

SAY IT WITH FLOWERS"

This is one case where talk isn't cheap.

JUST ABOUT

Student: "What's the difference between a dance and a dawnce?"

Mealeyite: "About four bucks."

YES, DARN IT, YES!

"Exams are like the poor," said the wise Sophomore.

"How is that?" asked the innocent Frosh.

"They are always with us," answered the Soph.

Modesty is a very nice trait but when a girl refuses to sleep in the same room with a rubber plant, that is carrying it to extremes.

EVE AND THE SERPENT

Nobody sees
A big hole
In a little
Girl's stocking
But a little Hole in a big
Girl's stocking
Will start a Parade!

BANG!

Hydrogen: "Kitty's a pretty loud girl, isn't she?"

Sulphide: "Yep, even combs her hair with a bang."

STONE AGE

CAMOUFLAGE

Little side-long glances,
Little winks so quaint,
Makes you think it's love
When it really ain't.

HEARD ON FRIDAY

Soph: "Are you going to the brain garage to-night?"

Frosh: "Where's that?"

Soph: "B-thorpe."

THE PLAY'S THE THING

She: "Now that you have looked at my music, what would you like me to play?"

He: "Oh, bridge or poker!"

Burro has a lot of doubt as to whether Eve wore a fig leaf when he sees how many folks get poison ivy.

ADAM AND EVE

Adam was the first man,
And Eve, she was his wife;
They lived in the Garden of Eden,
And oh! they led some life.
Eve, she was beautiful.
And oh, how she could dance
She wore a skirt of shredded wheat,
While Adam wore no pants!

THE EVIDENCE

Wife: "So you were detained at the office by a will case?"

Hubby: "Yes, dear, a consultation with the heir."

Wife: "Yes, I see you brought it home with you on your shoulders. She was a blonde, I notice."

KEEP AWAY FROM THERE

She: "They say you can live cheaper in Allentown."

He: "No, you only feel cheaper living there."

Do you remember the time you found that large fat letter addressed in HER handwriting? You saved it 'till the last until you were alone, got out the old pipe and settled down to read a letter from HER. You opened it slowly to make the pleasure last, and found — — — — — her sister's wedding invitation!

AUTUMN DAYS

The naked hills lie wanton to the breeze;
The fields are nude, the groves unfrocked;
Bare are the shimmying limbs of the shameless trees—

What wonder if the corn is shocked?

A ROUGH GAME

"Do you ever play golf?"
"No, the game is too course for me."

HISTORY

Adam was the first man, and Eve, she was his spouse;
She let a little garden and started keeping house.
Everything went quiet and peaceful in the main
Till they got things agoin' and started raising Cain.

Abram was an ancient Jew of an investigatin' turn—
Stuck Ikey in the fire to see if Ikey'd burn.
But Ikey was a lucky kid and got off with his skin,
For just as he was cookin', a ram came buttin' in.

Esau was a cowboy of the wild and wooly make--
His father gave him half the farm and half to brother Jake.
But Esau said the title to the farm it wasn't clear,
So he sold it to his brother for a sandwich and a beer.

Joseph was the favorite son and he was very zealous,
His dad gave him a golf coat and it made his brothers jealous;
So they sold him into Egypt for a small consideration,
Where he made a million dollars on a big grain speculation.

Sampson was a fighter of the John L. Sullivan school,
He licked the mighty Philistines with the jaw-bone of a mule,
But a woman named Delilah got him filled up full of gin—
Along came the barbers and the sappers roped him in.

Jonah was an immigrant, so runs the Bible tale;
He booked a steerage passage in a trans-atlantic whale.
But Jonah down inside "got very much depressed,"
So he just pushed a button and the whale he did the rest.

Daniel he got sassy and wouldn't mind the king,
The king said he'd be d — — d, if he'd stand for such a thing.
So he put old Danny with the lions away down underneath,
But Daniel was a dentist and he pulled the lion's teeth.

DIDJA EVER?

Didja ever have a class on the top floor of Packer Hall? One of those eight o'clock classes after the night before, and when it was over you wandered down and out the door. You start for the Lab, but all of a sudden it hits you — — — that damn report's on the top floor,—forgotten! Oh, boy what a feeling.

FLOOD OF WHISKEY POURING INTO THE UNITED STATES

Public Ledger

Burro rises to remark that perhaps the above headline would cause the prohibition officers to suggest, "Dammit!"

HAIG & HAIG

"There is a great deal printed that you can't believe."

"There is ; especially on bottles!"

ADAMS EXPRESS

Adam and Eve lived very nice,
Years ago in Paradise.
But it ended soon and here you see
How it all come under the old apple tree.
It appears that Eve had a taste for fruit.
And Adam said, "Gee, you're easy to suit."
So he looked around and spied an apple,
And gave it to Eve for her to grapple.
Said Eve to Adam, "Don't get sore,
For when I'm through, you can have the core."
Now it happened that this was the forbidden fare,
So Adam and Eve both got the air!

ALL SHADES

"Is this the hosiery department?" said the voice over the phone.
"Yes," said the sales-lady
"Have you any flesh colored stockings in stock?" asked the voice.
"Yes," said the weary sales-lady. "What do you want—pink, yellow or black?"

He: "Do you believe in hypnotism?"
She: "I guess so—I feel that you are going to kiss me, and I am powerless to resist."

"You say you don't see much of Jack at college? Why, I thought you lived in the same square?"

"We do, but we don't move in the same circle."

He: "Why do you have that copy of the BURR on the piano?"

She: "I want to play some jokes, of course."

YEA '23!

You can always tell a Senior
By the way he's gowned;
You can always tell a Freshman
By the way he struts around.
You can always tell a Junior
By his worried looks and such;
You can always tell a Sophomore,
But you cannot tell him much.

A stitch in time saves an indecent exposure!

This is the little fellow who nearly broke up our last swimming meet by falling in the pool when the starter fired his revolver.

THE PARTING

There once were two loving brothers
Who grew up side by side.
But ah, there has to be a change
Some time through time and tide.
They vowed that they would never part
While growing up as boys,
But now one lives in Illinoy—
And one in Illinoys.

FINE FELLOW

First One: "Did Harry go in a Tuxedo last evening?"
Second One: "No, it was rather nice out, so we walked."

She has a taste for whistling.
A taste that's not permissible;
But still, I don't object to it,
The pucker is so kissable.

SHE WAS A GOOD GIRL

'Twas down in the Lehigh Valley,
Me and my wife named Sue,
We were grubbing a few hundred acres,
And we never knew when we'd be through.
But curses! one day came a stranger,
A chauffeur from town, tall and gay;
One night when I came to my home, sir,
The chauffeur had chauffeed her away.

And now in the city I'm toiling,
Yet I start at the toot of a horn,
And I stand there in dread and in terror,
With a feeling so sad and forlorn;
When I hear the soft purr of a motor,
My heart, sir, just seems to crack;
Do I hope that I once more shall see her?
No! I'm only afraid she'll come back.

Chem. Prof.: "What is H₂O₄?"
Student: "For drinking."

HEARD AT A CRAP GAME DURING H. P.

He: "Come seven, buy the baby a new pair of shoes!"
She: "Oh, Gene, don't give us away like that."

He stood on the bridge at mid-night
As drunk as a son-of-a-gun
Two moons went over the city,
Where there should have only been one.

TWO GOOD POINTS
FOR THE NEW YEAR

TRY THIS ON YOUR PIANO

Burro is always one jump ahead of all others, including the squirrels, so we hereby offer our own psychology exam. Try out your "hat rack," and see how many of these questions you can answer. They will all be answered in our next issue.

1. Is the Camel cigarette a cigarette or a piece of chocolate cake?
2. Underline the four most important words in the following sentence: War is Hell!
3. Your full name, being sure to use capital letters.
4. Why do some fish fly and birds, like the chicken, walk?
5. What figure predominates in this country?
6. If you have written a woman's, explain yourself. If you have written 2.75, you may skip the next question.
7. Is it true that Chinese children speak only when they are spoken to?
8. Do you think that the coming generation will do general housework?
9. Does the weather have any effect on a barometer?
- 10 Aside from a "mint with a hole in it," what is America's greatest life saver? (Don't say Bevo.)

SAD, BUT TRUE

They loved her eyes of azure blue,
Her ankles, straight and trim,
And each one thought her ripe red lips
Were just reserved for him.

So when the party all was gone,
Each brother needs must tell
How oft he'd kissed her—and then learn
How twenty others fell!

AS USUAL

SOME OF THE THINGS THE "OLD BOY" MISSED

COULD ANYTHING BE WORSE THAN THIS?

Prof: "What is a cosmopolitan?"

Stude: "Suppose there was a Russian Jew living in England with an Italian wife, smoking Egyptian cigarettes near a French window, in a room with a Turkish rug on the oor. If this man drank American ice cream sodas while listening to a German band play, "Come Back to Erin," after a supper of Dutch cheese made up as Welsh rarebit, then you might be quite safe in saying that he was a cosmopolitan."

WITHOUT DOUBT

Adam: "How do you like the Garden of Eden?"

Eve: "Oh, I think it is a beastly affair!"

HO! HO! HEE! HEE! HAW! HAW!

Fee! Faw! Fum!
The girls are chewing gum!
But never mind, when they are through,
It's probable the rag they'll chew,
And I prefer the gum, don't you?
Yum! Yum! Yum!

THEY SAY THAT—

It's entirely possible to kiss a woman against her better judgment, but no man has ever kissed a woman against her will!

FLIRTING WITH TIME

She stopped and gazed,
He moved his hand,
Though his face was stern
As a rock.
For she was only a passer-by,
And he was the "Old Town" clock.

A sign on a Third street window says, "Ladies ready to wear clothes." They should have been ready much younger.

We know a young lady from Kent,
Who drove out with a chappie named Dent.
He looked more at his "sweet"
Than he did at the street,
And so both of them got badly bent.

If you heedlessly step of the curb,
You may often the traffic disturb.
Our light-hearted Jane,
We shall ne'er see again;
But the flowers at the grave were superb.

OH, SLUSH!

Fair Lady, (in Bethlehem music store): "Say mister, have you "Baby Dreams?"

Clever Clerk: "No, but I have winning ways!"

Wonder what language Adam used when he made love to Eve?

SOME OF THE THINGS THE "OLD BOY" MISSED

EVOLUTION

Ah, sister dear, do you recall,
When we were young in knowledge.
It took three weeks to pack our stuff
Before we left for college?

And when we took our pictures out,
And lined 'em on the mantle,
For all the other girls to see,
Our pride was quite infantile.

And we were all in love, you know—
Had met our fates at last,
We came to school to please our folk—
Each damsel with a past.

But now we never pack a trunk,
Our mantle's full of dust,
And though we never have a date,
We'll get a date or bust!

MAKES A DIFFERENCE

Tuby: "You don't seem as enthusiastic about Gertrude as you used to."

Lanky: "Naw, I saw her in a gym suit."

As far as we're concerned, that old definition of life might be changed to read that "Life is just one damn petition after another."

GOOD IDEA

Storekeeper: "Anything I can do for you, my friend?"

It: "Have you got any nice new white shirts?"

Storekeeper: "A store full of them."

It: "Well, go in and put one on!"

A GREAT INVENTION

Jack: "How do you know that Adam and Eve didn't have any serious family differences?"

Jill: "We would have heard of divorce courts sooner."

There was a young man from the west,
Who courted his girl with great zest.
So hard did he press her,
To make her say, "Yes, sir,"
He broke the cigars in his vest.

CLEVER

Dumb: "Why is the hour glass made small in the middle?"

Dutch: "To show the waste of time."

Senior: "You are always behind in your studies."

Frosh: "Well, you see, that gives me an opportunity to pursue them."

A co-ed is known by the dates she keeps.

AT THE LOCAL PLAYHOUSES

The holidays brought several world famous plays to our door step and many of our honest citizens were taken by the advertising posters. The furniture for the bed-room scenes has arrived so the new theatre is liable to begin showing modern plays at any time. Enough warning will be given to our readers. This week the following productions honor the local screens and stages.

At La Grande: A musical wreck is offered for our approval. It is a good show for the tired business man, for he can sleep right through it and not miss a thing. The chorus is the best joke that has been aired around here this season.

At the Pump: Sylvia Smythe and Reginald Murphy in "Drunk Again." The writer judges it is a pre-war story centered around the San Francisco earthquake. Sylvia and Reggie play their respective parts very well, so if you enjoy antiques, you will not be disappointed in this picture.

At the Lorenzo: In the days when movies were a "jitney," you would enjoy seeing Anica Jones and Mary Dubonnet in "Alimony," but at the present prices, you might better go and see a real show.

No show at Hellertown this week as the Opera House is full of hay.

HISTORY CLASS

Teacher: "Johnny, name some of the great people of history."

Johnny: "Adam and Eve."

Teacher: "But, Johnny, why are they great?"

Johnny: "Well, my dad said that if it wasn't for them, none of us would be here."

ROMANCE

They walked down the lane together;

The sky was covered with stars,

They reached the gate in silence,

And he lifted for her, the bars.

She raised her dark eyes to him—

There was nothing between them now;

For he was only the hired man,

And she was a jersey cow.

TO THE ONLY GIRL

Her lips are like a red, red rose;

(The last one of last June.)

Her voice is like a melody,

She's singing out of tune.

So fair is she, that pretty lass;

So deep in love am I,

Yet what it is in her I see

I really can't descry. .

For all of it is false, my dear.

The lips, the lashes—hair,

She talks in monosyllables;

Her cerebellum's bare.

Yet, why should I object to that?

I care no fig—not I,

For what is more important, i—

The fact that she gets by.

COULDN'T BE DONE NOW

Sal: "Eve's servants must have had a hard time of it."

Soda: "Meaning?"

Sal: "She kept a ten foot snake instead of a bunch of poodles."

If there's anything to heredity, I feel sorry for Eve. Some how, all her daughters are different, and if she was a combination of all, Lord help her—and Adam!

CRUEL

He: "I wonder what you wear in Heaven?"

She: "I know what I'll wear if I see you there."

He: "What?"

She: "A surprised look."

RATHER EMBARRASSING

"Dull party, isn't it?"

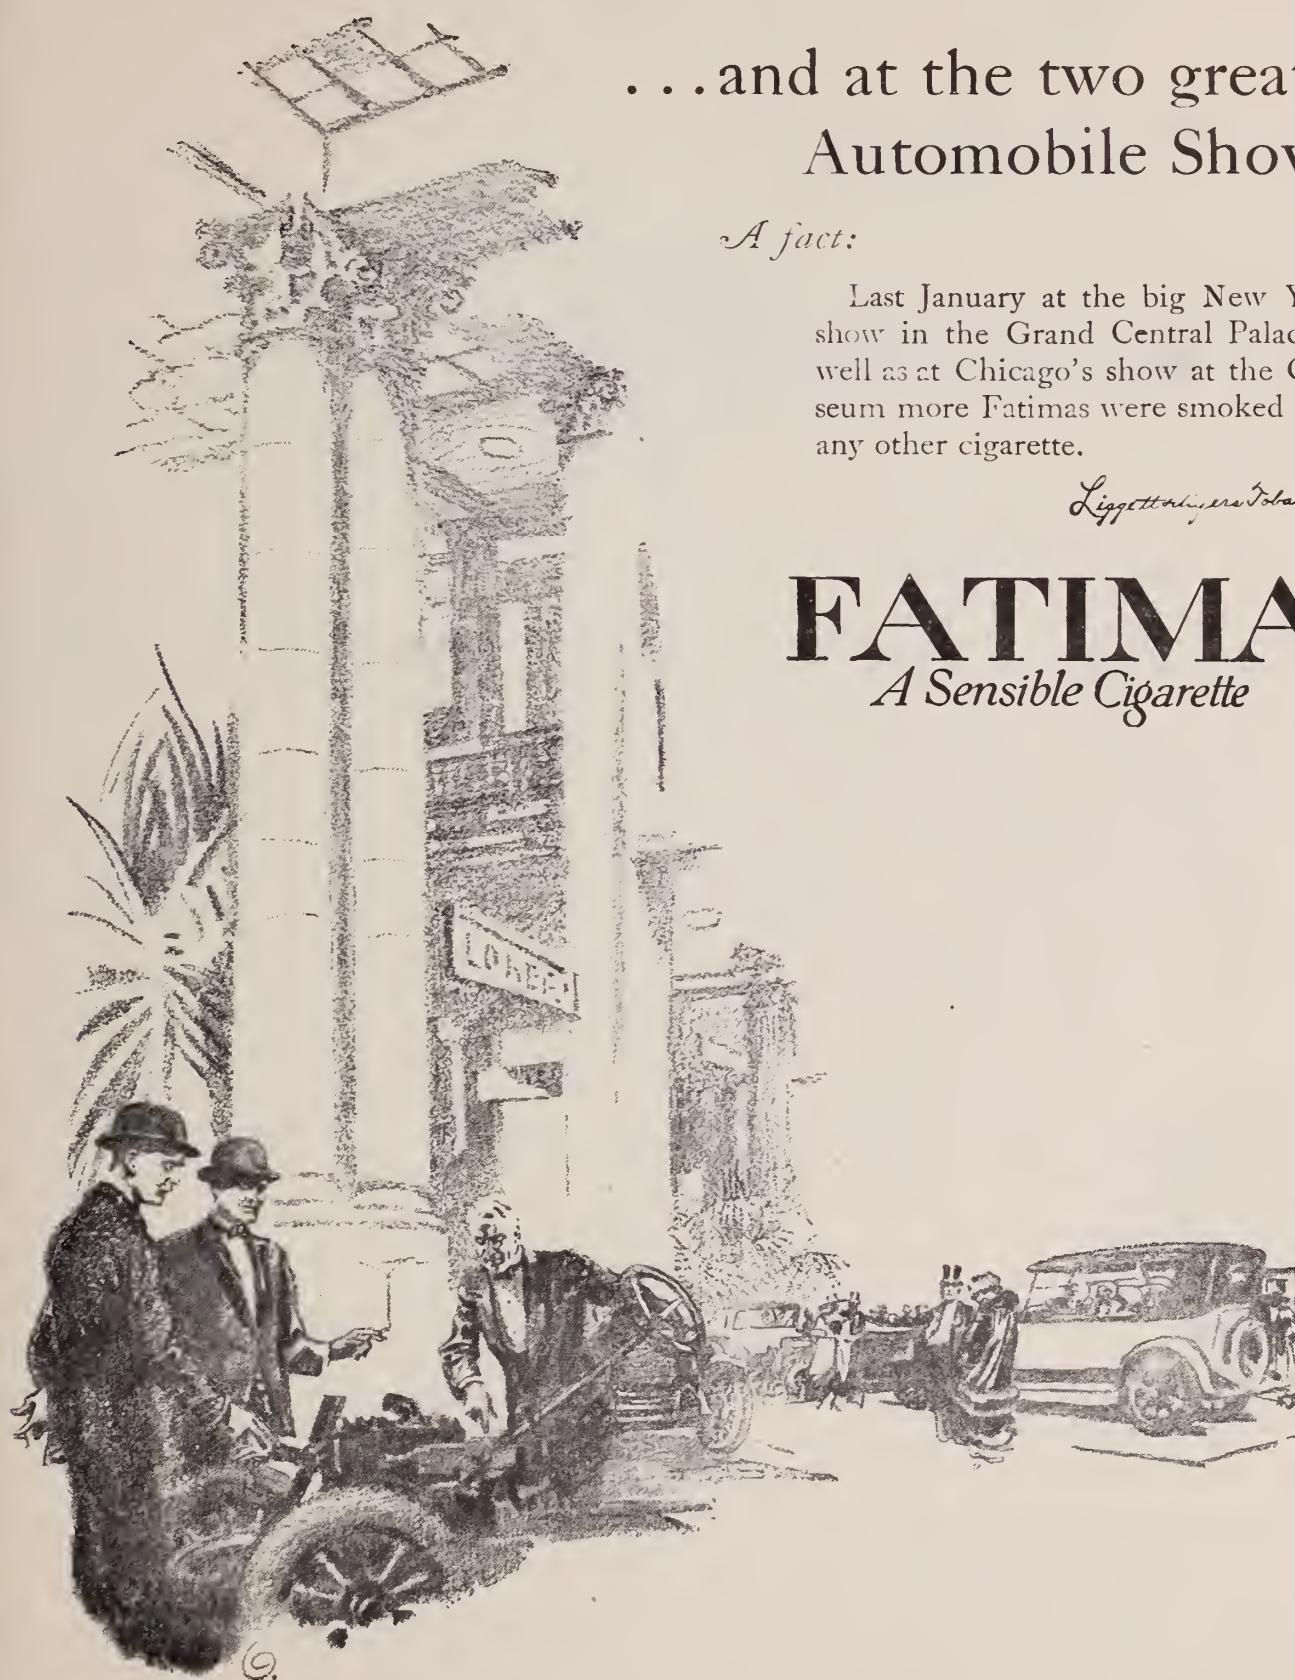

"Very dull, yes."

"Let's clear out."

"Can't, I live here."

Some men are said to want more than one woman.

Some men are crazy.

What Is Vacuum?

IF THE traffic policeman did not hold up his hand and control the automobiles and wagons and people there would be collisions, confusion, and but little progress in any direction. His business is to direct.

The physicist who tries to obtain a vacuum that is nearly perfect has a problem somewhat like that of the traffic policeman. Air is composed of molecules — billions and billions of them flying about in all directions and often colliding. The physicist's pump is designed to make the molecules travel in one direction — out through the exhaust. The molecules are much too small to be seen even with a microscope, but the pump jogs them along and at least starts them in the right direction.

A perfect vacuum would be one in which there is not a single free molecule.

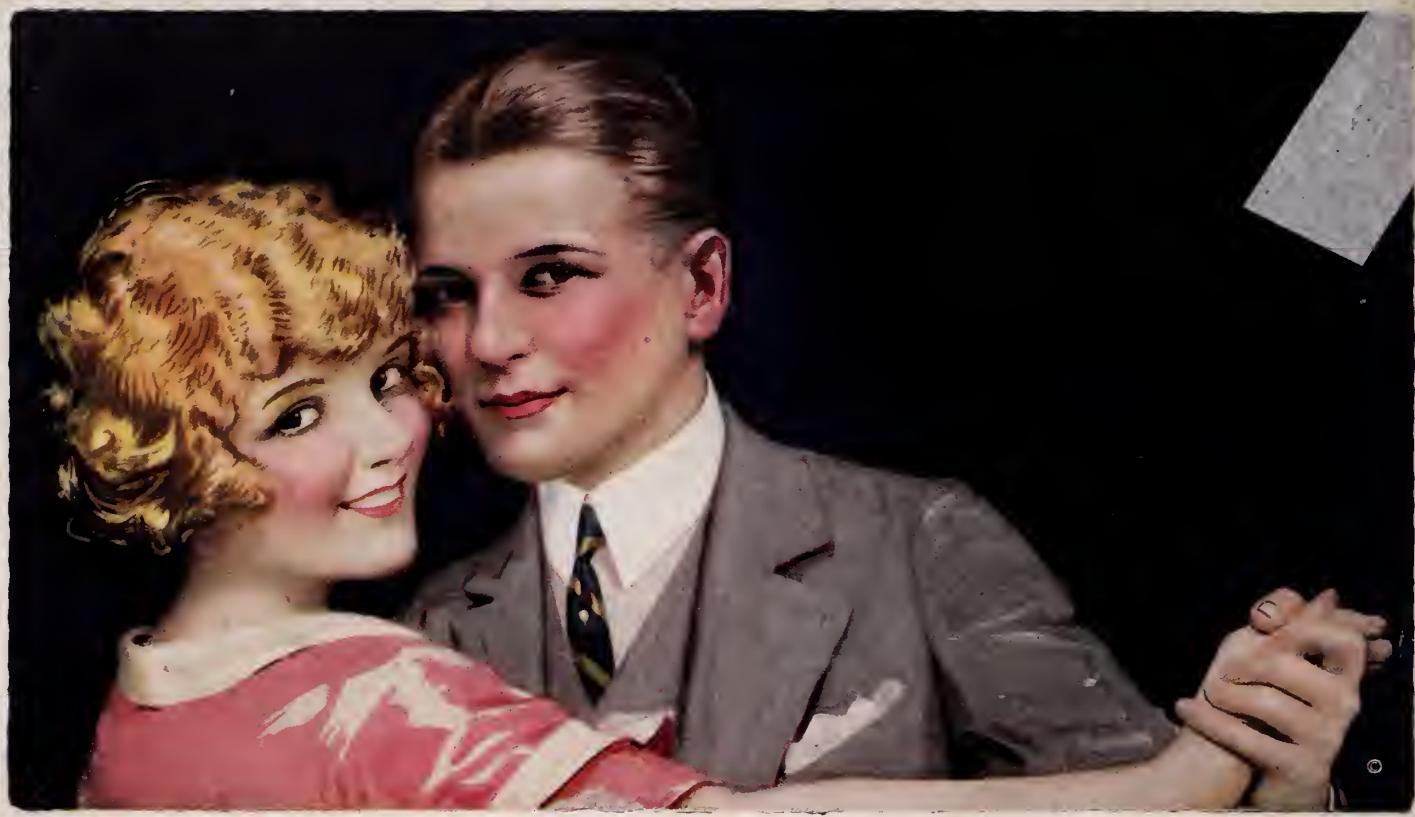

For over forty years scientists have been trying to pump and jog and herd more molecules out of vessels. There are still in the best vacuum obtainable more molecules per cubic centimeter than there are people in the world, in other words, about two billion. Whenever a new jogging device is invented, it becomes possible to eject a few million more molecules.

The Research Laboratories of the General Electric Company have spent years in trying to drive more and more molecules of air from containers. The chief purpose has been to study the effects obtained, as, for example, the boiling away of metals in a vacuum.

This investigation of high vacua had unexpected results. It became possible to make better X-ray tubes — better because the X-rays could be controlled; to make the electron tubes now so essential in long-range wireless communication more efficient and trustworthy; and to develop an entirely new type of incandescent lamp, one which is filled with a gas and which gives more light than any of the older lamps.

No one can foretell what will be the outcome of research in pure science. New knowledge, new ideas inevitably are gained. And sooner or later this new knowledge, these new ideas find a practical application. For this reason the primary purpose of the Research Laboratories of the General Electric Company is the broadening of human knowledge.
